

Working at VOGEL

At VOGEL Antriebstechnik, we support initiative and team spirit. Become part of our motivated and successful team!

Job offers

Home / Career

Welcome to the Career portal of VOGEL Antriebstechnik

At VOGEL Antriebstechnik, discover what it means to pull together with open colleagues. In a strong team, we treat each other with trust and tackle challenges together to give customers our best, day in, day out. No matter whether you are looking to take your next career step as a qualified specialist, school-leaver or student: in our company you can expect to take responsibility for your work, a safe job and outstanding perspectives for professional development. We at VOGEL look forward to meeting you.

Experienced workers. Your new perspectives.

Is your experience looking for a new challenge? Then you have come to the right place with your professional experience. VOGEL Antriebstechnik offers you an attractive and friendly working environment. Our innovative strengths guarantee a widely varied range of tasks every day. In order to consolidate our market position further, we are looking for experienced specialists who would like to shape and move the future of the company through their dedication and commitment. Do you have ideas that you would like to put into practice? Do you have technical and manual skills? Then become part of our highly qualified and motivated team. Work at the heart of drive technology!

Young professionals. Your future-oriented decision.

Have you successfully completed vocational training or a degree and are you looking for a career opportunity with long-term perspectives for your further development? VOGEL Antriebstechnik offers a hugely varied range of tasks in a pleasant, friendly atmosphere. Help us to achieve our objectives and develop your position in the company. We promote and demand “what’s best for you”, and offer breathing space for a suitable work-life balance. You enjoy the benefits of a flexible company with flat hierarchies and team spirit.

Manager. Take on responsibility.

You are currently a step away from top-flight management and have the will and drive to take on responsibility? Or you already have management experience and are looking for a new challenge? We look forward to hearing from you.

School-leavers. Start your career from the pole position.

You will be leaving school soon and need to decide which profession to take up? As a recognised training company, VOGEL Antriebstechnik offers interesting, sought-after and future-proof professions in both technical and commercial fields. With us, you are at the heart of things, not standing on the sidelines. Right from the very start, you will experience how gearboxes are created – from the drawing board to the installed gearbox. We promote your skills and support you with professional and personal development, because we aim to train our own specialists for the future. We look forward to making an appointment with you so that we can present our range of training possibilities to you.

Working for VOGEL Antriebstechnik

For more than 70 years now, VOGEL Antriebstechnik has been a family-managed traditional company providing stability and future perspectives. As a high-performing development and technology partner to our customers, we produce outstanding and high-quality drive technology for a wide range of different industries and applications. The name VOGEL Antriebstechnik stands for excellently trained employees in development, production and administration, who enrich the company daily with know-how, personality and great commitment, thus securing a high level of performance long term. We maintain our skills level through intensive training and further qualification as well as through communication and knowledge management in all fields and on all levels of our company.

Have we piqued your interest?

Then apply now. Of course your application will be treated strictly confidential.
Please send your application documents to:

Apply now