We know your industry

With VOGEL you stay flexible. For example our modular gearbox system offers you the widest variety of combination possibilities. On the basis of these product standards we additionally offer you desired modifications required for your application spectrum. It goes without saying that such services are cost-optimised and in accordance with your specifications. With unusual requirements we offer entirely individual solutions. In such cases we assess application conditions together with you, dependably advise you and construct purpose-built gearboxes for you – including gearwheel production.
